

January/February 2012

quick trip

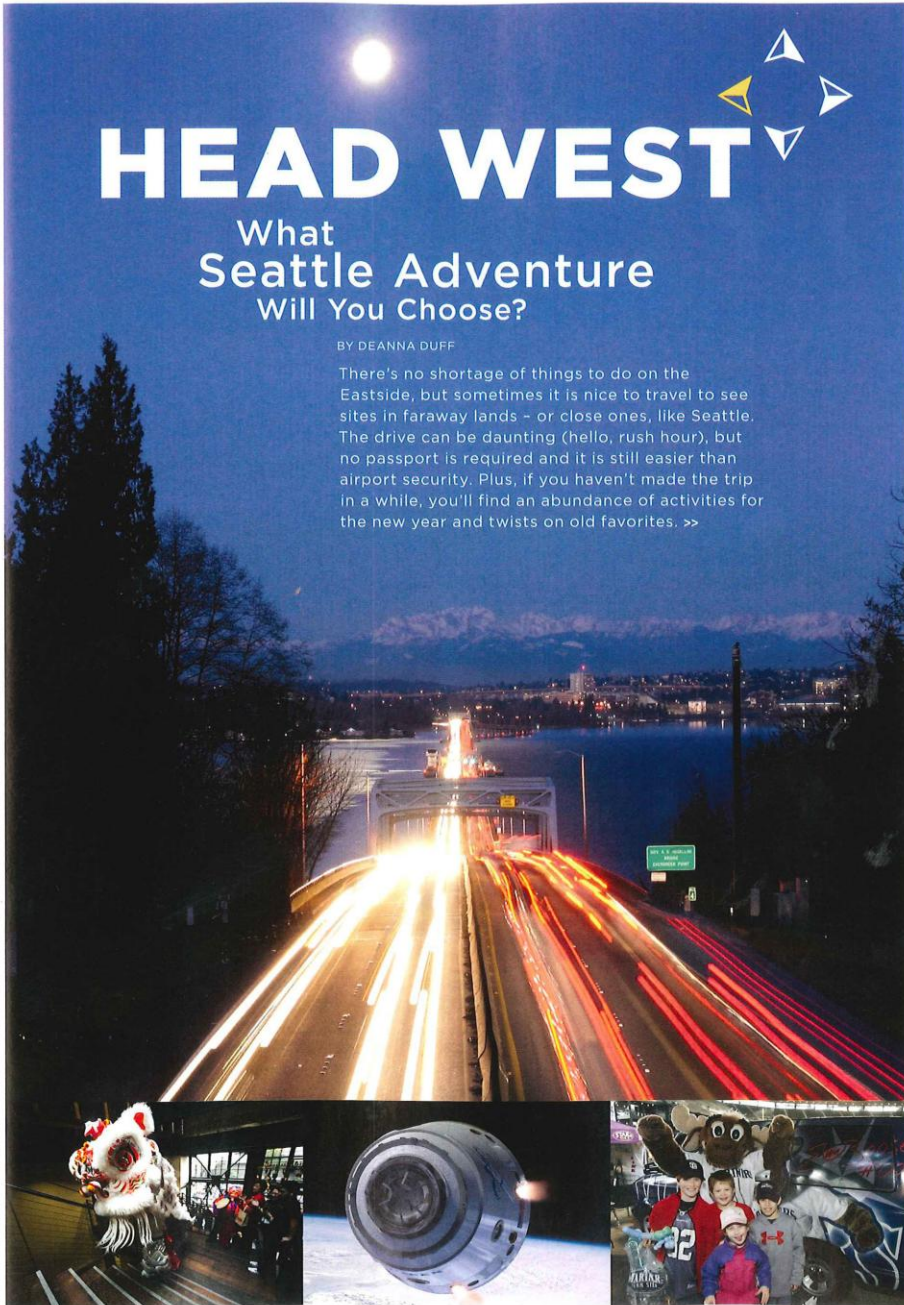

HEAD WEST

What
Seattle Adventure
Will You Choose?

BY DEANNA DUFF

There's no shortage of things to do on the Eastside, but sometimes it is nice to travel to see sites in faraway lands - or close ones, like Seattle. The drive can be daunting (hello, rush hour), but no passport is required and it is still easier than airport security. Plus, if you haven't made the trip in a while, you'll find an abundance of activities for the new year and twists on old favorites. >>

LEFT TO RIGHT: SMALL IMAGES COURTESY WING LUKE MUSEUM, SPACE X, AND BEN VANHOUTEN. MAIN PHOTO ISTOCK

FOR THE FOODIES

South Lake Union (SLU)

SLU is a hub of activity. It's a who's-who of dining hotspots, including Flying Fish and Tom Douglas' culinary trifecta: Brave Horse Tavern, Ting Momo and Cuoco. Good news — you can walk off your dining indulgences during the monthly ARTcade, a cooler, updated version of the traditional art walk. FUTURE FILE The Seattle Architecture Foundation is launching tours of SLU beginning in April. Highlights include SLU Park and the Amazon campus. Discover South Lake Union, discoverslu.com. Seattle Architecture Foundation, seattlearchitecture.org.